Overview of traffic

The single digit growth of passenger traffic movements for airports in Malaysia for November was in line with our expectations. The double digit 13.2% international growth contributed significantly to the growth. The growth in international passenger traffic was mainly contributed by the Middle East, South Asia, North East Asia and South East Asia sectors. Largest increases in traffic were attributable to sectors including China, India, Saudi Arabia, Oman, South Korea, Vietnam, Thailand and United Arab Emirates. For the international sector, the AirAsia Group, Malindo Air, Xiamen Airlines, Hong Kong Dragon Airlines, Saudi Arabian Airlines and Emirates are among airlines that added large numbers to November traffic. All the regional international airports (except for Penang) experienced double digit growth for international traffic. Domestic passenger growth was essentially contributed by AirAsia. A number of airports including Langkawi, Kota Bharu, Melaka, Subang, Labuan and Kuantan experienced decline in traffic over November 2016 contributed by reduction in airlines' domestic seat capacity especially by Malaysia Airlines and Malindo Air.

Istanbul SGIA's double digit growth in total and international passenger traffic indicate a continued recovery of traffic, with international passenger traffic recording double digit growth for the sixth consecutive month.
