Overview of Traffic and Outlook

The overall increase in passengers in June was supported by growth in airline seats and an improvement in average load factors following the long weekend of Hari Raya Aidilfitri celebration at the end of June 2017. 24 airlines in June 2017 and 28 airlines in 1H17 registered double-digit growth for international passenger traffic. This includes AirAsia X, All Nippon Airways, China Airlines, Malindo Air, Saudi Arabian Airlines and also Malaysia Airlines Berhad among others. Passenger traffic to and from 19 countries registered double-digit growth in June 2017 including China, India, Indonesia, Japan, New Zealand, South Korea, Taiwan, United Kingdom and Vietnam which registered more than 20% growth.

25 countries registered double-digit passenger traffic growth in first half 2017 that include the aforementioned countries. The sectoral and nationality composition analysis indicates a new level of growth contributed by among others by visa relaxation for India and China, new additions in the local travelling population, Umrah travel, competitive fares as well as favourable exchange rate for foreign tourists. In addition, the increased demand was rightly supported by adequate increase in airlines' seat capacity.

Malaysia's first half economic growth has been optimistic and full year forecast has been expected to be better than originally expected. Apart from the local Research Houses, World Bank has also raised its growth estimate for Malaysia from 4.3% earlier to 4.9% in May 2017. The global economic growth is also showing positive signs. IMF has increased its global forecast in April 2017 by 0.1% above the 3.4% estimated in October 2016. The airlines seat capacity supply estimates for next half remains buoyant at more than 6% above the second half of 2016. ICAO, ACI, IATA and, Boeing and Airbus recently, forecasted Asia Pacific growth well above 7% and Malaysia's growth is expected to be in line with these estimates for 2017. Based on the prevailing indications and the current growth trend, there are optimistic signs that airports in Malaysia as a group is poised to achieve a growth rate of at least 8% for 2017.

Istanbul SGIA's Q2 passenger growth for international and domestic sectors have moved to a promising higher positive category compared to Q1 over same Qs in 2016. In particular the international increase in Q2 was 9.5% as compared to Q1 which was negative 2.5%. While the conditions in the Mid-East region remain with new challenges such as the new Qatar issue, the traffic numbers for SGIA has moved to a more promising level and we expect this to continue.
